

PAKISTAN 2006 CASMI began our partnership with SWI (Strategic World Impact) by helping a local church begin a sewing program for abused women and girls. This center teaches and helps provide vocational training while sharing the love of Jesus with all those that come.

SWI has been working in Pakistan for over 12 years and during this time have also established a Christian school in Punjab province, where children of all faiths come together for teaching, love and some of the finest curriculum in Pakistan. The school serves as a springboard, if you will, where we not only minister to the children (which alone is awesome), but it gives us access to their families, to the community and to surrounding villages. CASMI and Moms in Prayer are now partnering with SWI going forward, praying for these children to find Christ and hope in a difficult country.

SWI offers one week long Bible Conferences just for the women - a true work of God in this culture. Blessings abound including baptisms on a rooftop in a kiddie pool brought from the USA. As a call to prayer bellowed from nearby speakers we had chills up our spines as we watched God at work. Throughout Pakistan SWI also helps with earthquake relief, ministry in villages, conducting ethics conferences and more. We are honored to partner with a ministry that has a great burdened for Pakistan and leads with integrity. We see God's mighty hand working inside this country and will be increasing our prayer outreach for the needs of the women and children.

As CASMI was planning our first Masters Workshop for the women of Russia in 2007, SWI hosted their first Women's conference in October. During this first women's event many accepted Christ and were baptized and went on to be involved in the CASMI/SWI sewing partnership. We are excited to expand our outreach to Pakistan.
