

PAVLOVO , NIZHNI NOVGOROD REGION OF RUSSIA

We want you to meet Tatyana, the mother of Nadya, CASMI's Russian Director, and her friends of the Povlovo Women's Group. These ladies live in the central European part of Russia - about 18 hours from St. Petersburg. Nadya invited her mother to come and care for their 5 year old daughter Nastya (in the pink sitting on Tatyana's lap). After meeting her we have come to love her also.

During the 2006 team trip she was able to spend time with the team and learn more about our work. Upon her return home she told the ladies of her church about CASMI. They became excited about our work and are now sewing the CASMI evangelistic zipper purses.

Women in the small towns of middle Russia have a limited opportunity to earn money. Several of the women from the Pavlovo Women's Group are on very low government pensions, and several have small children or are unable to work due to poor health. One of these seamstresses has a ministry of distributing Bibles and Christian literature. Sewing the CASMI zipper purses allows each of these women to earn extra income and have a ministry at the same time. This project has been a big blessing to each of these women.

CASMI commitment to help these women below. Contact us for more information.
